Harper Reagan has been through everything a woman could possibly go through. When running away at fifteen, she enters the world's oldest profession to survive. And survive she did. Barely... If you call abuse, counted as property and tortured to no end surviving, then that was what she did survive. Her life was spared, but at what cost? Long ago Harper had died. She is finally living a better life with a successful business, friends, and a place she can finally call home. She will do anything to keep her past hidden, including jeopardizing her only chance at love. And a truly good man. Breccan Caldwell is everything Harper knows she doesn't deserve. He's gorgeous, successful, caring and a true gentleman. Can Breccan show Harper who she truly is? Or will he be pushed out by the darkness she allows herself to be consumed with? This book details mature subject matter, such as coarse language, sexual and violent situations. It is not suitable for anyone under the age of 18.
