

Frog (Chinese Edition)

Frog is the creation of Chinese writer Mo Yan, 2012 Nobel Prize recipient in literature. This full-length masterpiece stirs the hearts of its Chinese readers. The story is based on the life experiences of a female doctor who served the women of rural areas for more than 50 years. The main characters contributions in the gynaecology and obstetrics department showcases the sixty-year history of bringing babies into the world since the establishment of the PRC. Each story is told vividly through touching details of self introspection and exposes the chaotic situation of human reproduction among Chinese families. Each story is narrated by Tadpole and includes deep analysis of the humble, while revealing the embarrassing and contradictory inner world of Chinese intellectuals.
